

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
WESTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON
AT SEATTLE

---	--	---

The Court, having reviewed petitioner's 28 U.S.C. § 2241 petition, all papers and exhibits in support and in opposition to that petition, the Report and Recommendation of the Honorable Monica J. Benton ("Judge Benton"), United States Magistrate Judge, and the remaining record, does hereby find and ORDER:

(1) The Court ADOPTS the Report and Recommendation with the following additional comments. The Court is not persuaded that Judge Benton erred in the underlying Report and Recommendation as Petitioner contends. The sole issue in Petitioner's writ of habeas corpus petition is whether this Court has the authority to release him from custody pursuant to the provisions of § 241(a) of the Immigration and Nationality Act ("INA"), as codified by 8 U.S.C. § 1231. The INA provides that "[e]xcept as otherwise provided in this section, when an alien is ordered removed, the Attorney General shall remove the alien from the United States within a period of 90 days." 8 U.S.C. § 1231(a)(1)(A). The INA further provides that an alien ordered removed may be detained beyond the 90-day removal period.

01 8 U.S.C. § 1231(a)(6) (emphasis added). Furthermore, the Supreme Court has expressly held
02 that although 8 U.S.C. § 1231(a)(6) does not provide for indefinite detention, it does create a
03 presumption that detention is valid for a period of six months. Zadyvdas v. Davis, 533 U.S.
04 678, 701, 121 S.Ct. 2491 (2001). Once this six-month period expires, an alien may be 05 eligible for release upon demonstrating “that there is no significant likelihood of removal in 06 the reasonably foreseeable future[.]” Id. at 701. The burden then shifts to the Government to 07 “respond with evidence sufficient to rebut that showing.” Id.

08 As a result, the only question for this Court to resolve is whether Petitioner has made
09 a showing that there is no significant likelihood of removal in the reasonably foreseeable 10 future, as both parties agree that the presumptively valid six-month period of detention has 11 expired. Based on the record, the Court cannot find that Petitioner has met this burden.
12 Since February 15, 2007, the United States Government has engaged in communications with 13 the Iraqi Embassy in Washington, D.C. to secure travel documents necessary to effectuate
14 Petitioner’s removal. (Dkt. #16 at 5-7). Petitioner nevertheless contends that removal is 15 unlikely because no such travel documents have been issued by the Iraqi Government, despite 16 Petitioner’s alleged full compliance and cooperation with the United States Government.

17 However, Petitioner’s arguments have been completely undermined by the 18 Declaration of Ben R. Maxwell (“Mr. Maxwell”), which was filed by Respondents in this 19 Court on March 25, 2008. (Dkt. #22). Mr. Maxwell, the Deportation Officer assigned to 20 Petitioner’s case, indicated that he “received a travel document for [Petitioner] titled ONE
21 WAY LAISSEZ PASSER.” (Id. ¶ 5). He further indicates that “[t]he document was issued
22 by the government of the Republic of Iraq. The document is valid for a period of six 23 months.” Therefore it is unequivocally clear that Petitioner cannot now claim that his 24 removal is unlikely in the reasonably foreseeable future.

25 The Court also finds it worthwhile to address Petitioner’s argument that Judge
26 Benton’s Report and Recommendation “unfairly requires Petitioner to consent to deportation

01 despite having a colorable defense to deportation,” and that it also “forces Petitioner to waive 02 any right to appeal any of these findings.” (Dkt. #17 at 5). As Petitioner is fully aware, the 03 issue of whether Petitioner has a defense to deportation is currently pending before the 04 United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit.¹ Furthermore, and as mentioned above,
05 the only issue in Petitioner’s habeas petition in this Court is whether he should be released
06 from custody pursuant to the clear statutory import of 8 U.S.C. § 1231, and the holding of 07 Zadvydas, which interprets this statutory language. Therefore, the issue of whether 08 Petitioner has a colorable defense to deportation is outside the scope of Petitioner’s habeas 09 petition, which seeks relief only “on the grounds that removal cannot be effectuated in the 10 foreseeable future.” (Dkt. #1 at 2). Additionally, the Court finds that nothing in the language 11 of Judge Benton’s Report and Recommendation indicates that Petitioner must waive his 12 rights to appeal. Accordingly, Petitioner’s habeas petition is DENIED.

13 The Court will not, however, dismiss the case. As the Supreme Court noted in 14 Zadvydas, “as the period of prior postremoval confinement grows, what counts as the 15 ‘reasonably foreseeable future’ conversely would have to shrink.” Zadvydas, 533 U.S. at 16 701. Thus, if Petitioner is still in custody after the expiration of the travel document secured
17 from the Iraqi Government, the rationale behind denying Petitioner’s habeas petition loses its 18 force. The Court will therefore retain jurisdiction over the action to ensure efficient
19 resolution of any and all future disputes, assuming that the Court possesses the requisite 20 jurisdiction to rule on the dispute. See Singh v. Gonzales, Case No. C06-500RSM (W.D.
21 Wash. July 14, 2006); Athwal v. Ashcroft, Case No. 02-1423RSL (W.D. Wash. Dec. 10, 22 2002); Tan v. INS, Case No. 02-122RSL (W.D. Wash. July 29, 2002).

23 (2) Respondents’ Motion to Dismiss (Dkt. #5) is GRANTED IN PART, and 24 Petitioner’s § 2241 habeas petition (Dkt. #1) is DENIED at this time.

25
26 ¹ The Ninth Circuit will entertain oral arguments on this issue on April 9, 2008. See 06-73491.

01 (3) This action WILL NOT BE DISMISSED. In order to ensure the efficient
02 resolution of any future disputes, the Court will retain jurisdiction over the matter.
03 Respondents shall file a report on the status of Petitioner's removal on or before September
04 25, 2008, the approximate expiration date of Petitioner's "ONE WAY LAISSEZ PASSER."

05 (4) The Clerk is directed to send copies of this Order to all counsel of record.

06 DATED this 2 day of April, 2008.
